Didsbury area man contracts West Nile Virus

Doctor says public should not panic at diagnosis

by Richard Westlund

The first confirmed case of the West Nile Virus in Alberta has been confirmed in the Didsbury area, a local doctor said Monday.

Dr. Marc Puts said that one of his patients contracted the virus but maintains the public should not panic about the diagnosis.

"The man had been trucking through the United States and he has recovered 95 per cent," said Puts after the news was confirmed earlier in the afternoon. "He is not contagious. He is not a risk to anyone."

The man was initially referred to the Foothills Hospital as a possible meningitis case. It was confirmed as a meningitis case, was treated, and he was discharged.

Puts said the man got progressively worse and he sent his patient back to Calgary to be screened for West Nile.

The positive result came via fax Monday afternoon from Dr. Margaret Russell's office from Health Authority 5's Medical Office of Health.

The test was administered at the National Microbiology Laboratory in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

Puts said two weeks ago the case was considered "highly suspicious" of the West Nile Virus.

Symptoms of the West Nile Virus are usually mild and include headaches, fever, body aches and sometimes includes skin rashes and swollen lymph glands. Severe infections can include comas, tremors, paralysis and occasionally death.

West Nile Virus is primarily an infection of birds and culicine mosquitoes but can also include horses and humans as incidental hosts. The cycle of the disease for mosquitoes and birds usually occurs in the spring and in late summer for humans.

The virus is spread through mosquito bites and can cause inflammation in the spinal cord and brain of birds and horses and can be deadly.

Concern about the disease in Canada has been a major concern for many officials this year. The virus was discovered in dead birds in Ontario in August 2001. This summer birds in Manitoba and Quebec were also tested positive.

According to the U.S. Center for Disease Control, in regions where the virus is present, fewer than one percent of mosquitoes carry the West Nile Virus.

Puts said that with winter setting in there is no need to panic. He did say the case may increase the action against the virus.

"Everyone should be on the watch," said Puts. "And the region needs to be more aggressive. Anyone with an unusual headache should be screened."

Puts said earlier this year

Didsbury doctor

he found a dead crow lying on a Didsbury street. He said he phoned a public health nurse to examine the bird but was told that screens are not done.

"I think this is a big hit for Alberta. I think this will convince some people that we need to be more aggressive."

COUNTY

Ratepayers will have say on administration building Oct. 30

Five options will be presented for discussion

by Carla Victor

The upcoming open house, to share renovation plans for the Mountain View County administration building, will be a prime example of how things will work with this council, said building committee member and councilor, Charlie vanArnam.

vanArnam said council plans to keep the lines of communication open between them and the public especially on this sensitive issue.

Residents of the county are invited get their first peek at options for the renovations of the 40-year-old administration building, Oct. 30 at the Didsbury Memorial Complex.

Doors open at 7 p.m., attendees are free to view five renovation options.

At 7:30 Linus Murphy, of the Cohos Evamy Partners architect firm, will give the actual presentation. He will be presenting five options for public discussion. All the options are for renovations, not new building designs.

vanArnam, said the committee has not even considered a new building as an option.

"We have a ballpark price on what a new building would cost only to compare it to renovations."

He said while doing the research on this committee, he was shocked by the costs facing council on this project.

"We are facing nearly $1 million of repairs that have to be done to the building even if we don't add another square foot."

The options were presented to council, by Murphy, at their last regular meeting.

Sept. 25, had price tags ranging from $2.6 million to $3.9 million.

He said some of the repairs need to be done soon, so time is of the essence.

Whether or not another plebiscite is in the future, it all depends on the outcome of this meeting.

vanArnam says all decisions will be made public, concerning the building.

"We are hoping that by being a lot more proactive with the sharing of information there won't be as many misconceptions out there, like there were before."

He said keeping the lines of communication open between council and community is priority one for this committee.

"I think this was handled poorly the last time (before the petition and plebiscite) and so we have been pushing for lots of communication, lots of public involvement and public awareness."

Dave Derksen, Mountain View County councilor, chairs the committee that holds five community mem-

Future plans and next steps are all depending on the outcome of this open house, so vanArnam encourages anyone with an interest in this process to attend the meeting and let their voices be heard.

Mountain View County wanted to build a new administration building last year and passed a motion to do so. A petition on the issue was circulated prior to the municipal election and the County decided to hold a plebiscite on the issue.

Seventy-five per cent of those who cast a ballot said no to a new building.

Currently the building sports approximately 15,000 square feet of space. An addition could add as much as 6,000 square feet.

Work for the dogs, Sorensen is more about cats

Bengal cats a passion for local woman

by Richard Westlund

After working in town for 23 years - Wendy Sorensen decided that life was for the dogs.

Now her life is geared around her cats.

Sorensen raises Bengal cats, a breed that descends from the Asian Leopard cat, and in six years has become known as an international breeder.

"After working in town that long I decided that I didn't want to work anymore," said Sorensen. "I saw Bengal cats in a cat show and I was immediately intrigued. I really liked their temperament - they seemed to be very loyal."

Even before she took her first cat, Sorensen made a trip to California to investigate the breed more.

She knew some breeds of animals were trendy at times and that many of those animals had been abandoned by their owners. Convinced she didn't want to be involved with a breed that would be affected by a phase of popularity, Sorensen visited pet shelters in a strong Bengal breeding area to see if she could find any abandoned Bengal cats. She couldn't.

Now at Sorensen's farm a trailer has been converted to hold her animals. The trailer, which is immaculately clean is divided into different rooms and provides plenty of room for animals to play in.

Some cats adorn her deck and run into the house to play when Sorensen brings a favourite toy out.

The breeding program was almost an immediate success and attracted interest from Hong Kong and Korea. While most of the Bengal cats are sold from $350 to $1,500 depending on their quality, Sorensen sold two of her best cats to the Korean businessman for $2,500 a piece. The man bought a third Bengal from Sorensen just a year ago.

domestic but playful temperament.

"Your trying to reproduce the look of a wild cat with a sweet temperament. You try to eliminate the negative things in temperament while trying to get a nice coat."

In addition to the breeding program, Sorensen also enjoys bringing her cats to cat shows.

tions separated from the actual Asian Leopard Cat which means they are more domesticated. The cats are either spotted or marbled and Sorensen has one completely black Bengal.

All of the Bengal cats have spots on their bellies - a trait found in the breed.

While Sorensen loves the breed, she maintains that some of her customers are absolutely crazy about Bengal cats. She asks each customer to send a few pictures of their cat, so she can see how they are doing. One customer sent back pictures of their Bengal's first birthday party which included a cake, guests and a fundraiser which collected $280 for the local SPCA.

"They are beautiful cats," said Sorensen. "They are very playful, they like heights and they like water. They can become very loyal to a family and are easy to teach."

OPINIONS EDITORIAL

Sharing to improve

RICHARD WESTLUND
EDITORIAL

The RCMP detachments in Didsbury, Olds and Sundre have cooperated for years when it has come to sharing resources.

A strong working relationship with each other allows them to set up more holiday checkpoints, allows them to be able to use a greater pool of equipment and plan for more policing on certain events - without creating a strain on their budgets.

Sharing resources between two or more entities is becoming a trend for local businesses and municipalities. The Town of Didsbury is continuing talks with Mountain View County and is now looking at action on how they can share resources or cooperate in certain ways to save money.

Health Authority 5 is trying to expand its services by cooperating with two other Health Authorities - David Thompson and Crossroads. There is speculation in this case that this may eventually lead to a merge and create one large health authority.

So what has brought us to this cooperative state? Why weren't these initiatives brought to light in the past?

The economy has become increasingly tight in recent history and more and more organizations, institutions and businesses have felt the brunt of having less and less money and resources at their disposal.

The attempt to become stronger by working with each other is an adaptation in bad times. Municipalities are faced with harder decisions when it comes to providing core services. Our recent garbage situation is proof of that. With rising garbage costs looming the Mountain View Waste Authority was created so that a system could be put in place that would benefit all who lived in the community.

With cooperation, however, comes a loss of autonomy in the decision making process.

A balance must be kept between sharing resources and maintaining local sovereignties.

Alberta organizations will help seniors with emotional problems

by Stan Woloshyn

Recently, I read with interest, the findings of a Statistics Canada report on seniors. The report stated that thousands of seniors throughout the country suffer from loneliness, isolation and depression. The findings also showed that Canadian seniors typically spend nearly seven hours a day alone.

While these findings are of great concern, it is comforting to know that in Alberta there are organizations that can help. Alberta has a number of seniors-based organizations that offer support services designed to help seniors combat isolation and depression.

These support services include visitation programs where caring volunteers drop in to see if a senior requires assistance, or a visit for just a friendly chat. "Caring Calls" is a similar program offered by many organizations that sees volunteers telephoning seniors on a semi-regular basis. These outreach programs give those seniors an opportunity to stay connected to the organizations, their events and their communities.

For information on seniors-based organizations that can offer this kind of assistance, my ministry publishes the Directory of Seniors Organizations. The directory lists contact information and an overview of programs and services for many seniors-based organizations in the province. My ministry has copies available to seniors through our toll-free information line and the ministry's website.

The Mundare Senior Citizens Club, the Calgary Seniors Resource Society and the Seniors Outreach Program of Three Hills and District are just three fine examples of organizations with programming designed to help prevent and curb the onset of loneliness and depression among seniors. The Seniors Outreach Program of Three Hills and District was honoured with a 2002 Minister's Seniors Service Award in part for their work with outreach programs.

Speaking of the Minister's Senior Service Awards, I am pleased to announce that the 2003 Minister's Seniors Service Awards nomination form and poster will be released this month. The awards celebrate the contributions Albertans and organizations make to enhance the quality of life of Alberta's seniors. My ministry hosts the sixth annual Minister's Seniors Service awards ceremony during Senior Citizens Week in June 2003.

If you know an individual or organization providing exemplary services or programs on behalf of Alberta's seniors, I encourage you to forward a nomination for these awards. Each year, my ministry honours three individuals and two organizations for their hard work and dedication.

For information on the Directory of Seniors Organizations, or for information on nominating an individual or organization for the Minister's Seniors Service Awards, please contact my ministry directly at 1-800-642-3853, or visit the Alberta Seniors website at: www.seniors.gov.ab.ca <<http://www.seniors.gov.ab.ca>>

I would also like to take this opportunity to remind everyone that whether it is a moment of silence, or attending an observance in your area, Remembrance Day is an opportunity for all of us to pay tribute to the brave men and women who made the ultimate sacrifice.

Without the courage and valour of hundreds of Alberta's young men and women during times of conflict we would not have the freedoms we enjoy today.

On November 11, please take a moment to honour and remember the veterans of our armed services who gave so much to our province and our country.

Stan Woloshyn is the Alberta Minister of Seniors' Services.

Ponderings of the heart

Special Moments

by Margaret Fradley

Most of you readers will know by now that I enjoy garage sales, not only to browse through the treasures of others, but just to have a morning out, relax and meet with people I often don't see any other time.

Recently I went to a garage sale, and spotted a 'wall unit' I thought I liked very much and thought we needed, but did not want to take it without consulting my husband. The people very kindly offered me a cell phone, and I called my husband, but as is often the case, he was absorbed in something else and did not hear the phone, so I went a step further, I asked the people if they would consider holding the unit, while I went and fetched my husband, they gladly consented, I went and we returned hastily, we both thought it was what we wanted, but I had neglected to measure our TV so after much measuring on their parts and me returning home to measure our unit, the kindly people offered to bring over the wall unit, and see if our TV would actually fit. I really believe both my husband and I were having a "senior's moment".

The unit, was brought into our home, the T.V. fit, and we made our purchase. These people will never know what their kindness and willingness to 'go the second mile' even in a garage sale meant to me. It was a teary moment and made my day, just giving me fresh hope for mankind. For me, personally these moments are treasures.

County administrative building should be affordable

Dear Editor,

In the October 11, 2002 edition of the Mountain View County News I was wrongly credited with a Bucket Style (B.S.) solution for solving the Administration Building problems. I did not make that comment Bucket Style, but I like that phrase - it fits a farmer. As a child I learned that if you milk a cow, you give her relief, and if she kicked the bucket, all was lost. You could stop pigs from squealing by pouring a bucket into the trough. When we enter life we are issued a bucket into which we collect all of our good and bad deeds. We depart by kicking the bucket so that the contents run over a sieve onto a scale and we hope that the good outweighs the bad.

On October 2, 2002 I asked for and was granted, a 15 minute presentation to the Mountain View County Administration Building Review Committee. I brought three more B.S. solutions in the form of three floor plans of approximately 8,000 to 11,000 square feet, which would give us a big Council Chamber and from 30 to 38 offices of 12' by 12'. The Building Committee found my B.S. solutions interesting enough that they kept me an extra hour to scrape my bucket clean. Two and one-half years ago at a County Building Tour we were told that the building was 11,800 square feet in size. Fourteen months later, according to County pamphlets, it was 13,272 square feet.

On September 25, the Cohos Evamy Report stated that we had 15,013 square feet of usable area.

On September 30, I measured the building and found it to be 16,498 square feet.

On the eighth of October in the meeting with the Building Committee, it was reported that it now was 16,500 square feet in size. We could be renovating for a long, long time if it keeps on growing at a rate to where the Town of Didsbury would soon be pushed right off the map!

A church group in Didsbury has just built a new church for under $67 per square foot. Cohos Evamy estimates our renovation costs for 15,013 square feet of usable space at $2.8 million or $186.50 per square foot.

I urge all ratepayers to come to the October 30, 2002 Meeting at 7:00 p.m. in the Memorial Complex at Didsbury to get answers to any questions you may have.

Last year, around election time, the County informed us that our plebiscite, that we ran against the proposed $3.6 million new County Building, was not binding to Council because of some little legal loophole. I plugged that loophole by asking all Council candidates, at the Forum in Didsbury, if they would abide by the outcome of the plebiscite.

I, and I hope all other ratepayers, will absolve you from your given promise if renovation estimates turn out to be higher than a modest new building that serves our present need, costing around $1 to $1.2 million.

Yours truly,
Henry Kuelker

Councillor apologizes and will fight for fire fighting resources

A Letter To The Volunteer Fire Fighters Of The Town of Didsbury & District

This letter is in response to references in the last two issues of this paper, to our local volunteer fire fighters, as being a bunch of "Boys who like their toys" and needed "To be shot down". I, Harry Penner, am the councillor who is referred to as making this statement. To add to this, as well as being Town Councillor, I am also Town Council Representative to the "Fire Commission": this represents all the people of the Town of Didsbury, and the country known as "Didsbury Rural".

The fact that I am doing "Double Duty", representing the Fire Department on Town Council for all of their needs, including funding, presented a great deal of disappointment and anguish to our fire people in Didsbury. There may even be an element within our society who would be negatively influenced by a statement like this, and agree to an idea like this. To these people, I will say that I am not one of you. The message that was sent out was wrong, and I have in the past, and will in future defend our fire fighters, both with moral support, and continue to influence Town Council in any way I am able to see that they get some of their immediate needs in the short term, and the rest on a rotational basis, beginning as soon as funds allow. Let me caution you though, budget money for capital funding is extremely tight.

To the Voluntary Fire Fighters of Didsbury (and District), let me assure you that I, personally, hold you in highest regard. I have, through fire associations, represented you and your best interest, for approximately 34 years. To be quoted, as saying, what was published, I sincerely regret. To all of the men and women who supply, unselfishly, the emergency needs of our community, I humbly apologize. To you, each and every one of you, one at a time, I must say that I am sorry that a statement like this, in any form, under any conditions, either publicly, or privately was uttered by me.

My sincere wish is that I may continue to serve our fire department, both personally, and by way of Town Council, through the Fire Commission, to the best of my ability, and the ability of the Town's limited resources. Will you trust me with this mission again?

Signed
Harry Penner

Stolen cube van runs local couple off highway

by Richard Westlund

A night at the movies turned into a harrowing experience for a young couple on their way home from Calgary.

Tony Shipley, 21, and his girlfriend Debbie Griffin, 20, both from Olds, were inches away from being hit by a stolen cube van as it swerved into north bound traffic on Deerfoot Trail in the north part of the city.

Shipley was unable to get onto the highway because police had blocked off access routes including 16th Avenue. Country Hills Boulevard was not blocked off by police and the pair made their way onto the highway to get home.

As they were merging northbound on to the highway, they saw the van travelling in the southbound lane followed by a mass of police cars.

"The van cut across the median, onto the wrong side of highway #2 and swerved into our lane," said Shipley.

As the van approached his 1993 Ford Ranger pickup truck, Shipley became increasingly aware that he was going to have to move. He drove onto the shoulder in an effort to get out of the way, but the van swerved into his path again.

Shipley decided his only option was to drive into the ditch. That attempt also failed as the van adjusted his course as well.

"It was almost like he wanted us," said Shipley. "Our vehicle started spinning and it was only because we spun out that he missed us. It was only by inches. That is the closest I have ever come to being hit by a vehicle."

Shipley said he and Griffin sat in the truck for fifteen minutes in shock before attempting to move the truck out of the ditch. He said that a police cruiser slowed down to see if they were okay but drove away when Griffin waved at him.

Shipley had to push his truck out of the muddy ditch by himself with Griffin driving.

"It was a life-threatening thing. We were appalled by what happened."

Shipley and Griffin contacted the police the following day and were interviewed on Monday. They are now filling out a statement about the event.

"This really opened our eyes and made us think about our lives and the amount of time we all have. People should be more appreciative about their lives. It was a valuable lesson."

"My hands were on the wheel and my foot was on the gas, but it was God who was driving."

The Ford cube van was stolen in Carstairs and headed south towards Calgary on highway #2.

Police began the pursuit just after Crossfield. The driver rammed an RCMP cruiser in Airdrie and swerved into oncoming traffic during the chase.

Police eventually stopped the van after it turned off on McKnight Boulevard and went down Centre Street.

The man eventually ditched his vehicle but was unable to elude the HAWC helicopter that was tracking him.

The suspect was taken into custody with the help of the canine unit.

Daniel Joseph O'Hara, of no fixed address, faces eight charges including theft over $5,000, evading police, dangerous driving, leaving the scene of an accident, and possession of stolen property.

He appeared before Judge R. Pepler in Didsbury provincial court on Monday, adjourning the matter until Wednesday for a show cause hearing.

Didsbury helps buildingless Olds RCMP

by Richard Westlund

While Olds RCMP members wait for a permanent home, the Didsbury detachment and its members will be a valuable tool to make sure policing continues to run smoothly for their northern neighbours.

Earlier this year the Olds RCMP members were forced to leave their building when a fungus was found in the building.

Called Stachybotrys Chartarum (Black Mold), the contaminant has the potential to cause cancer and/or dementia.

The RCMP members moved into the Olds Town Administration building until a more suited spot could be found.

But as long as the Olds RCMP doesn't have its own home, it will be relying on other local detachments like Didsbury and Sundre.

"Right now we are bringing all of our prisoners to Didsbury, doing our Breathalyzer tests and using the interview rooms there as well," said Olds Detachment Commander Bob Phillips.

Cooperation is nothing new among local RCMP detachments. For the past three years they have been working closely together to help maximise their policing abilities and maintain their budgets.

While Olds RCMP will utilize the building in Didsbury for certain tasks until they have a building of their own, Didsbury Staff Sergeant Ron Platz said cooperation has been common place for years, more so in the last three.

He said a cooperation system was created for court days and has branched off into other areas.

Phillips said cooperation has allowed the police to be more visible at certain times.

"We cover each other all of the time - sharing personnel or assets. It's nice that we are able to do that," said Phillips, adding that large events like rodeos and dances sometimes warrant the extra help.

On Oct. 7 a plebiscite was held in Olds in which residents gave Town Council the go-ahead to borrow money to construct a new RCMP detachment.

Phillips said the vote has given members some relief. "The members now have some focus on the future. Before they didn't know where they were going."

A building committee was struck to give Olds Town Council information about constructing a new building and the group will visit the Didsbury RCMP detachment before making recommendations to Council.

While it is up to Council to decide costs, size and location of the building, Phillips hopes that ground will be broke on the project by the spring.

Phillips reiterated several times, however, that his number one priority was the safety of the staff that worked in the old RCMP detachment.

"There are still a lot of questions to be answered. The health and safety of our members is still a major concern."

Tests are still being conducted on Olds RCMP staff and generally those who became sick while working in the contaminated building are, in general, feeling better.

Discovery Day draws more than 250 guests

by Carla Shiels

More than 250 high school students and parents from Alberta, Saskatchewan and British Columbia took part in the fifth annual Olds College Discovery Day on Friday.

Registration began at 9 a.m. and the crowd was then divided into smaller groups of 25 to tour the buildings on campus, the farm and the residence.

An instructor greeted the groups in each building to offer information about the college.

"We want to give people all the information they need to help them make a sound post-secondary decision," said Sandy Bexon, Communications Coordinator external affairs for Olds College.

The tours lasted about two hours and the groups enjoyed a free lunch where they were joined by Student executive members.

"They wanted to welcome people and they wanted to opportunity to meet our guests," said Bexon.

The guests then enjoyed speeches given by Melissa Juneau, Olds college Student Association President, Jennifer VanDyk, Vice President of Campus Life and Rob Mackenzie, Vice President of Student and Support Services.

After the speeches, students got the unique opportunity to shadow an actual class at the college.

"Guests choose a program area that interests them and they can then sit in on a class...all program areas of campus are offering classroom shadowing this year," said Bexon.

"Our staff and current students have been working really hard to make it a fun, informative, hands-on type of day for the guests."

Discovery Day has evolved from being high school student oriented to including people of all ages.

"Our student surveys are finding that new students aren't coming directly from high school and we want to make sure everyone has the opportunity to spend a day on campus to see what we have to offer," said Bexon.

After a short but fulfilling career as a body builder, Wanda Aubee is ready to move on.

Two-and-a-half years ago, Wanda decided she wanted to give her dream a try. And after a fourth place finish at nationals last month she is content to end her show career.

"When I saw female body builders before I started this I was just in awe," she said, shortly before a workout last week.

The nationals at the Metro Convention Centre in Toronto, Ontario will be the last competition for Wanda who has come a long way in the last two years.

"I still can't believe I went to nationals. I am really happy with the way things went.

"It still amazes me that I was able to make that level. When I first decided I wanted to try this, my training partner (Vicky Johnson) told me I had potential."

But potential is only good if you do the hard work to develop it and for Wanda it has meant some sacrifices. The time span between provincials and nationals this year meant she had to diet heavily over a six-month period combined with regular workouts in the gym.

She said the closer she got to nationals the more she dreaded going to the gym and that it wasn't fun anymore. And in the last six months her eating regiment has been strict. She has eaten 300 chicken breasts, 3,000 egg whites and 75 pounds of dry oatmeal in that time period.

Since her decision to quit the sport, she eats with more variety and working out has become fun again for her.

On top of the physical requirements to go to nationals, much work and support was needed to be able to pay for such an experience.

Wanda fundraised by selling tickets for prizes and recipe packages. In addition to that she received sponsorship from Re/Max Mountain Aire, Clarica and McCormick Canada.

"I think that after showing myself I was able to do this I feel like I can do anything."

- Wanda Aubee, body builder

While her body has changed to being well-defined, so too has Wanda's personality. When her journey first began she was working only on a dream. Watching herself accomplish a goal so large has given her the courage to embark on new challenges.

Wanda is now planning to write a cookbook from recipes she used while body-building. She sold booklets as a fundraiser and she was always being approached about new ideas with food.

While the challenge is of a different type, Wanda is not at all worried about not being able to accomplish her goal.

"I think that after showing myself I was able to do this, I feel like I can do anything. Marc (husband) always talks about running marathons or doing triathlons. I don't know if that is something I would want to do, but I know that I would be able to finish one. I feel now that I could do anything.

"Part of the confidence I gained is pushing to write the book."

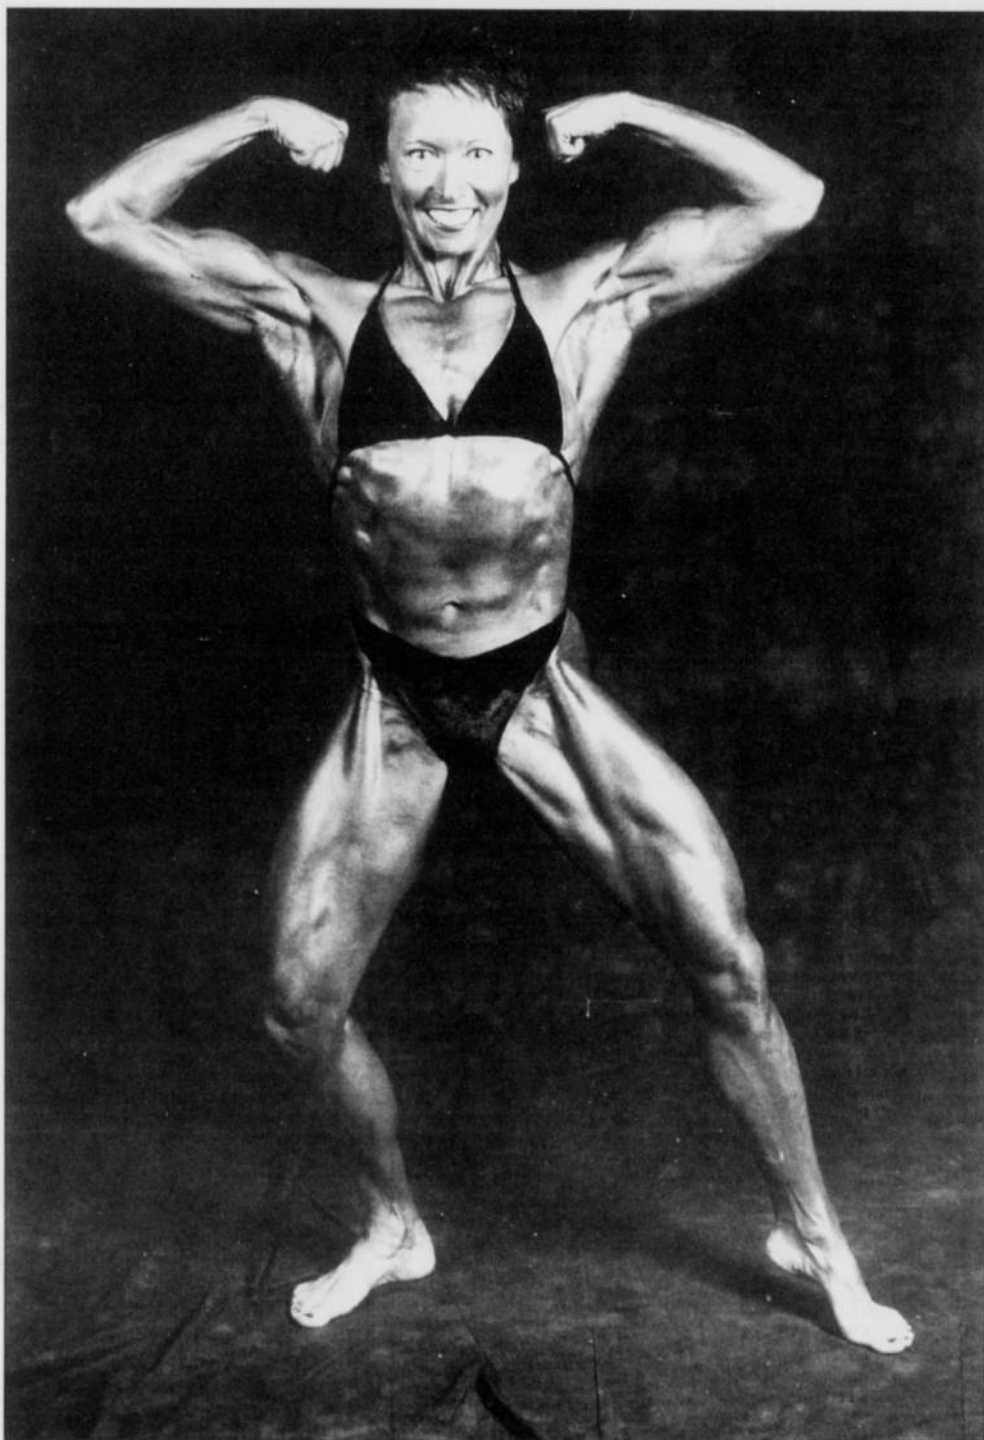

Even though the goals have been accomplished, Wanda continues to work out on an almost daily basis trying to work on different parts of her body. She wants to build up her glutes and increase her bench press.

Perhaps old habits are hard to break - continuing to return to a place associated with early-morning workouts and hours of cardio.

But also a place where dreams were realized.

"It was worth every second in the gym," said Wanda.

Dream accomplished, Aubee moves on

Wanda Aubee, who finished fourth at nationals this year has decided to move on from body building.

Analyzing Alberta's alternative to Kyoto agreement

On May 21, 2002 the Alberta government released "Albertans and Climate Change: A Plan for Action." The plan is designed to achieve "meaningful long-term emissions reductions" and "serve as the basis for an effective equitable national approach to climate change while contributing responsibly to solve global issues."

The plan's overall target is to reduce greenhouse gas (GHG) emission intensity by 50% by the year 2020. Note carefully the phrase "emission intensity". This is not real emissions. GHG emission intensity measures the impact on the global climate for each dollar of gross domestic product (GDP). It does not measure the impact of the whole economy on the climate system and therefore has no direct environmental relevance. Typical bafflebait! Tying emissions to GDP simply means that as long as GDP increases at a rate higher than actual emissions increase, it looks superficially as if positive progress is occurring, at least in terms of "emission intensity".

If Alberta's GHG emissions and GDP are analyzed for the period 1990 - 2000, it will be seen that the GHG emission intensity fell by 13% even as actual GHG emissions rose by 30%.

ROBERT AUSTIN

During the 1990s Alberta's GDP grew by 4% per year. If this rate continues until 2020 then the emissions intensity decline of 50-55% of the 1990 level would produce actual GHG emissions 70% higher than the 1990 level.

The Kyoto Protocol and associated operational details comprise some 250 pages of detailed text, which resulted from years of intense negotiations among the entire international community. The Alberta plan is 32 pages of vagueness and few convincing actions whose claim to "provide a practical alternative to Kyoto" is ludicrous.

As to the Alberta Plan's claim to provide an equitable national approach, the province whose emissions per capita far outstrip those of even the most populous provinces wants to be allowed to keep its real emissions far above the 1990 level for decades to come. The Alberta Plan is a smoke and mirrors attempt to continue business as usual while not reducing real emissions. Why was the expression "emission intensity" ever introduced if not to mislead? Real emissions must be reduced and Alberta should quit finding excuses not to do so.

We are putting profits and comfort ahead of the natural systems, which must nourish and sustain all life, including we meddling humans.

Robert Austin is a former educator and businessman who now lives in Didsbury.

ENTERTAINMENT

Focus on the Family

QUESTION: I went away to college and then came home to live again.

I'll admit there is tension between my parents and me, but we'd be OK if they would just accept me as a full-fledged adult.

Why can't they see that I'm grown and let me live my own life?

DR. DOBSON: Leaving home and then coming back is called "the elastic nest," and as you're finding, it can be very difficult.

You've been on your own — you've made your decisions and controlled your own life. You've changed dramatically during your time away, but you returned to find that your parents had not.

They are just like you left them. They want to tell you how to run your life — what to eat, what to wear, which friends to cultivate, etc.

It is a formula for combat. I understand your situation because I've been through it.

My parents handled me wisely in my late teen years, and it was rare for them to stumble into common parental mistakes.

That is, however, exactly what happened when I was 19 years old.

We had been a very close-knit family and it was difficult for my mother to shift gears when I graduated from high school.

During that summer, I traveled 1,500 miles from home and entered a college in California. I will never forget the exhilarating feeling of freedom that swept over me that fall.

It was not that I wanted to do anything evil or forbidden.

It was simply that I felt accountable for my own life and did not have to explain my actions to anyone. It was like a fresh, cool breeze on a spring morning.

Young adults who have not been properly prepared for that moment sometimes go berserk, but I remained rather sane.

I did, however, quickly become addicted to freedom and was not about to give it up.

The following summer, I came home to visit my folks. Immediately, I found myself in conflict with my mom. She was not intentionally insulting.

She simply responded as she had done a year earlier when I was still in high school.

But by then, I had journeyed down the road toward independence.

She was asking me what time I would be coming in at night and urging me to drive the car safely and advising me about what I ate.

No offense was intended.

My mother had just failed to notice that I had changed and she needed to get with the new program.

Finally, there was a flurry of words between us, and I left the house in a huff.

A friend came by to pick me up, and I talked about my feelings as we rode in the car.

"Darn it, Bill!" I said.

"I don't need a mother anymore."

Then a wave of guilt swept over me.

It was as though I had said, "I don't love my mother anymore."

I meant no such thing.

What I was feeling was a desire to be friends with my parents instead of accepting their authority over me.

Freedom was granted very quickly thereafter. I hope you will be a bit more patient with your parents than I was with mine.

I was only 19 years old, and I wanted it all. I should have given them another year to adjust. Your mom and dad will also change their thinking if you give them a little time.

They'll accept you as an adult much quicker if you'll get out on your own and establish an independent life for yourself.

Town will put on a swinging good time with the Polyjesters

At 7:30 p.m. on Saturday, October 26, the place that you're going to want to be is at the Didsbury Memorial Complex Multi-Purpose Room.

It is on this night that the Polyjesters will be performing their talents for the people of Didsbury.

Who are the Polyjesters? You would know them better as Jason and Sheldon Valleau and company.

Jason and Sheldon moved to Didsbury in 1985.

These two talented individuals have since become well known for their talents, performing and improvisation abilities.

Jason Valleau plays the acoustic bass and Sheldon Valleau plays the ukulele, and their band is rounded out by Ophelie LaRoche who plays snare and a special guest for this performance will be Johnny Summers who will be playing the trumpet.

Jason and Sheldon describe their music as old swing style and provide guaranteed entertainment for all ages during their performances.

And ... when I say performances, I mean performances.

They have performed in various locations around the world including Europe, being based out of Nice, France for the past three years.

They also had contracts at Disney World, and Montreal, and are home in Didsbury for a limited time before returning to the Montreal area to continue their musical tour.

Tickets will be available throughout Town including at the Town Office and at the Didsbury Aquatic Centre.

Pre-ticket prices have been set at $10 for adults, $5 for youth AND seniors and under 11 will be admitted for free.

Tickets will be available at the door for a slightly higher cost.

Pre-ticket sales will be available until October 24, and by purchasing your ticket on or before October 24, it will entitle you to a discount on the Polyjesters CD.

And believe me... after you hear the Polyjesters, you're going to want to have their CD on hand to listen to at your convenience.

We are also providing an exciting opportunity for businesses, of the community. A Business Bundle will be available for purchase. Bundles in a minimum of 10 tickets can be purchased at a discounted price.

This is a great opportunity for you and your coworkers to have a nice enjoyable evening out.

The Polyjesters have an amazing website that must be seen - it has everything you want to know (and maybe more) about the Polyjesters including audio and video cuts for your viewing, and listening enjoyment.

You can also follow the Polyjesters tour through their website.

And... if you're at the concert at the Didsbury Memorial Complex Multi Purpose Room on October 26, there's a chance that you may be able to view yourself on their website in the future!

The doors will open at 7:00 p.m., with the performance commencing at 7:30 p.m.

Get ready for a great show by some incredible local talent!

Remember - this is a concert for all ages!

Learning commission meeting will be crucial time

Editors Note: Chinook's Edge School Board made its presentation to the Learning Commission last week. This article preceded the presentation.

Alberta's Commission on Learning has given us a ten minute time slot to appear before it and present concerns or issues particularly associated with our area.

That's a tall order for such a short time.

At the end of our board meeting we struggled with what we would focus on for such a limited window of opportunity. After all, this commission will be making recommendations that could have a lasting effect on our students for years to come.

We came to the conclusion that many of our biggest challenges and concerns emanate from the rural nature of our jurisdiction. We are the Province's largest rural division in the sense that we have no city within our boundaries yet our student enrollment makes us the seventh largest division in the province.

You might be surprised to know that we are larger than Red Deer public. However, the widely dispersed student population in the many smaller schools we serve creates special challenges not found in cities.

Some of the issues are obvious. When our superintendents and directors visit schools across the division they are facing a lot of "windshield time". Try the trip from Cremona to Delburne and you'll see what I mean. Apart from the loss of time on task we estimate that this cruising adds about $100,000 to our central office budget. The Red Deer superintendent can visit all his schools in a morning.

Throughout the year we run central workshops and inservices for different groups of teachers across the division. This too means wasted travel time and extra costs.

By necessity we operate a huge busing enterprise which, though it is adequately funded, does make extra administrative demands on the superintendent's time in resolving thorny issues. The students in our small high schools are particularly affected compared with those in the large city schools. Course choices are more limited. Teachers are often required to teach a combination of courses, for example Physics 10, 20, 30, because there are not enough students for one class.

Those students who are looking for a vocational placement in a registered apprenticeship program or work experience find that the number of businesses available in a town or village is quite limited. Some might suggest that communication technology could be used to extend course offerings. That is certainly an option and one we have pursued, but it doesn't come cheap.

Another solution that is sometimes touted is to combine our high schools. Let's suppose Carstairs, Cremona, and Didsbury high schools were combined (total pop. 680). This would still be small compared with large schools in the city like Lindsay Thurber (pop. 1,900)

IAN TAYLOR

and Hunting Hills (pop. 1,271) in Red Deer. (The fact that Red Deer public can accommodate its high school students in two schools but we are obliged to run ten, speaks volumes about the dispersed nature of our division).

We would still have the problem of travel times for students. In the case of a student living west of Water Valley and travelling to the vicinity of Carstairs or Didsbury the daily journeying would be punishing.

Yet the issue is even bigger than this for it involves the very survival of small communities in rural Alberta. Time and again it has been shown that when a small community loses its school it begins to wither and die.

By the geographical nature of our division the student population is already fragmented into small schools. Another concern I have relayed before is the encroachment of the Red Deer Separate board into our area that will produce further fragmentation and more unnecessary busing.

One last point I'm sure we'll mention is the importance of school extra curricular activities in small communities. For most places it is literally the only game in town for students whereas cities provide a wealth of recreational facilities independent of schools. Because of this the withdrawal of voluntary services during the recent labor dispute was more keenly felt by students in rural schools. The Commission needs to address this previously neglected aspect of school life. You can see that this one topic alone will easily fill ten minutes.

We have many other issues that are common to boards across the province. Things like the funding and delivery of special education, or restoring the bargaining autonomy of boards. These will be presented to the Commission by our organization, the Alberta School Boards Association. I hope they will be allowed more than ten minutes.

Finally, I would encourage you to have a look at and maybe complete the workbook that the Commission has issued. The preamble to the questions is particularly interesting. It has some startling statistics and floats some provocative balloons, (e.g.

"Should school boards be given back the right to tax? If school boards are not allowed to raise taxes, should they continue to be elected?").

You can find it on line at www.learningcommission.gov.ab.ca. Your local school should also have some copies. I would stress that all community members are invited to make submissions, not just those directly involved in schools. The opinions expressed here are my own, not necessarily those of the Board. If you wish to contact me about this or other school matters call 335-8575, fax 335-8576, or e-mail, nanatee@telusplanet.net.

Preparedness emphasized during Bus Safety Week

Students who ride Chinook's Edge School buses got a safety reminder last week.

National "Bus Safety Week" ran from October 13 to October 19, 2002, and in Chinook's Edge School Division (CESD) it was marked with training on bus evacuations.

"We want students to be confident about what to do in case of an emergency," said Gil Gravelle, Director of Transportation, CESD. "Like a fire drill, a bus evacuation drill teaches children how to behave in a critical circumstance."

Chinook's Edge School Division conducts evacuation training with the students on all of its buses every year, twice a year.

During the drills, students learn how to safely exit the bus, and what to do after they have exited.

Evacuation procedures could be used in case of an accident involving a bus, or other circumstances that could interfere with the safe operation of a bus.

Carol Clarke, the training supervisor for the Division's transportation department, oversees much of the evacuation training.

"Student safety is our number one concern," said Gravelle.

"Hopefully our students will never have to use what they're learning about evacuations, but we are very serious about our responsibility to ensure our students are prepared."

Approximately 5,800 Chinook's Edge students (more than half of the total student population of 11,175) ride the bus to school each day. There are 137 routes that cover about 4 million kilometers each school year.

West Didsbury 4-H year begins

by Sarah Braun

As a new 4-H year is dawning upon us, the West Didsbury 4-H club had its organizational meeting, on October 7th. It is at this meeting that the leaders and executive were named. This year our leaders are, Doug Miller-- general leader; Brian Braun-- steer leader; Laura Lee Hrabok-- public speaking leader; Carol Hadway-- record book leader; and our heifer leader is yet to be decided.

The executive consists of president Cassandra Hrabok, vice president Danny Miller, Secretary Randilee Fisher, treasurer Catriona Richmond, reporter Sarah Braun and parliamentarian Cole Scheidt.

This year there are many projects in our club.

These are three-year-old cow, two-year-old cow, yearling heifer, show steer and carcass steer.

The club already has many activities planned for the year, including our annual bottle and battery, heifer shows, steer shows, Christmas party and public speaking.

The most important of the year's activities occurs on November 2nd, at Westway Farms.

This is our weigh day. The calves will be tagged and weighed and then we will have a meeting to follow.

If you would like to join our club or would like more information, please feel free to call Doug Miller at 335-4699 or Brian Braun at 335-9532. Please remember that if you would like to join the club and enter a steer, the steer needs to be at weigh in.

FOR THE DIDSBURY MUSEUM &

Campbell's Food Store was located in the building which is now known as Didsbury Drugs. When you're in this building look for the down ramp at the back where stock is moved from the store-room to the main floor. Back when I used to work for Campbell's we would fill up the carts at the back then catch a ride on them as they charged down the ramp! It was great fun I wonder how many other before and since have fun memories of racing carts down that ramp!

Didsbury gardener wins giant onion contest again

Newell Russell

For the second year in a row Newell Russell of Didsbury has taken First Place in Bogner's Greenhouse Annual Giant Onion Contest.

The larger-than-life "Holy Moly" onion Russell harvested on September 24th weighed in at 2.278 kg (over five pounds). His 2002 show champion was 37 grams heavier than the onion he won First Place for last year and netted him a cool $200.00.

"They did not get into the ground until May 15," says

Russell. "...we had a nice secluded spot next to our house on the east side...that was well protected and always got extra heat. I watered and fertilized without fail and nature bestowed a lot of sunshine and heat that they thrive on."

When asked what his secret to growing such large onions was, Russell revealed a few of his tried and true gardening tips. "Trying to keep the onions isolated is one tactic I guess...but the real secret is in the watering," explains Russell. "Most people will piddle a bit of water over their garden with a watering can, but if they dug down into the dirt they would find that it's only going down about three quarters of an inch. You have to saturate the roots if you want to get a good crop."

A self-proclaimed hobby gardener, Russell tends to his 15' X 24' patch each year with wife Sheila. Each year the couple likes to try to perfect their technique and make their garden better and better. "We grew about 48 of these (onions) this year and eat them on a regular basis. They are an exceptionally good onion and can grow to be about eight pounds under the right conditions," Russell says. "...We also grew a real smashing crop of tomatoes this year. It was tremendous." Taking Second Place in the contest this year was June Trentham of Nacmire (1.506 kg). Mark Trentham of Three Hills took Third (1.325 kg).

Carousel Cottage puts fun and magic back into shopping

Mention carousels to most people and images of childhood whimsy and splendor usually emerge.

Such is the atmosphere at the Carousel Cottage - Didsbury's newest gift shop located at 2022-18th avenue in the basement of proprietor Penny Lind's recently refurbished home.

"I've always been interested in this kind of shop," says Lind who makes and sells stuffed carousel horses as well as the porcelain musical variety she presently carries in her store. "It took me about six months to come up with a name...I was going for something unique...different, and I think I found it."

Patrons to the Carousel Cottage are in store for a wide assortment of whimsical and distinctive giftware items. In addition to several varieties of beautiful musical carousels, Lind's "Cottage" also carries a variety of stained glass pieces, pottery (Spirit of the Creek), glassware and seasonal craft items such as Christmas Stockings and other items involving wood-working and painting. "We really try to carry a bit of everything...but keep it unique...special."

The Carousel Cottage is open Monday - Saturday from 9:30 am - 5:30 pm. "I hope to hold a Grand Opening sometime in November once we get a little more settled." Anyone wishing more information on the gift shop can call 335-4372.

Celebrate harvest, have a hoot at Lone Pine Hall

Sometimes you just have to hoop it up. That's what members of the Lone Pine Ag Society are suggesting with their 2nd annual Harvest Hoot taking place at the Hall Saturday, November 9th.

"It's to celebrate the end of harvest," says Lone Pine Ag Society Representative, Ruth Good. "...hopefully by that time all the harvesting will be done and people will have a chance to come in, relax and celebrate the end to all their hard work this fall."

Featured at the "Harvest Hoot" will be music by the Dean Ray Band.

"We found out about this band from a lady in Three Hills. They are from Edmonton and play anything from classic rock to country...it should make for some pretty good music."

The end-of-harvest celebration event is just one of many more like it that the Ag Society plans to hold over the course of the upcoming year. "We are trying to set up an involvement with the Alberta Touring Arts Council with some of the entertainment we hope to book," says Good. "It will mean a lot more different kinds of events like this taking place. We are really looking forward to an exciting season ahead."

A ticket price of $15.00 buys you entertainment, dancing and a buffet lunch. The bar will open at 8:00 p, followed by dancing at 9:00 pm. For more information, call 335-9925 or 337-2212.

Didsbury Scouts are popping up again for fundraiser

Movie night just wouldn't be movie night without popcorn to enjoy and with the multitude of popcorn varieties available from the 1st Didsbury Scout Group, there is bound to be enough to last through even the most lengthy episodes.

Between October 14th and November 8th, troops of Scouts will be selling their popcorn wares as part of a fundraising drive that has become as much a tradition as girl guide cookies in the spring.

Among the varieties from which to choose include: buttered microwave popcorn, light butter microwave, caramel, chocolate and mixed. "It's priced to fit just about anyone's budget and is great for gift giving as well," says Parent Volunteer, Judy Newsome.

Newsome adds that a complete list of ingredients for the popcorn is available upon request. "It's a good product and pretty well known by now...but if people want to sample it before they buy, they can contact any member of the Didsbury Scout Group."

Money raised through this activity is directed towards camps and various other activities held throughout the year. Additional information about the 1st Didsbury Scouting Group Popcorn Sale can be obtained by calling 335-4846.

Protecting caribou habitat in Alberta's boreal forest

WOODLAND CARIBOU, THE SHY ANIMALS of the boreal forest that Aboriginal people once called "grey ghosts," are getting a helping hand from the oil and natural gas industry.

A $1.6 million study to better understand caribou has revealed that the access roads and seismic lines required for development change the caribou's travel patterns, making it easier for predators and hunters to kill them. Such science-based knowledge is important because caribou are on Alberta's threatened species list.

With new funding — provided by industry's Environmental Research Advisory Council, the West Central Producers Group, forestry companies, government, and the University of Alberta — old seismic lines are being reforested to resemble original caribou habitat.

Sarah Boyle, an environmental advisor with Devon Canada, an oil and gas company, says it will likely take from three to five years to assess the effectiveness of the pilot project. "If revegetation and reforestation of unused seismic lines can be shown to have a positive effect on the recovery of caribou populations, this project may well serve as a new model for all of industry to follow." In the meantime, companies are moving to the use of far narrower seismic lines to greatly reduce any disturbed area.

Understanding the needs of the caribou and protecting their habitat is one example of industry's efforts to respect the environment while meeting the demand for oil, gas and forest products.

Fishing for answers

ANCIENT TRADITIONAL KNOWLEDGE AND western science have joined forces in Fort McMurray to unravel the mystery of where the fish go in winter.

Aboriginal people in communities like Fort McKay and Fort Chipewyan depend on fish, as they have for thousands of years. That is why it is important to understand the habitat needs of pickerel, walleye, and other fish.

The Cumulative Environmental Management Association (CEMA), which strives to manage the long-term effects of industrial activity in northeastern Alberta, is supplementing western science with insight gained from Aboriginal oral traditions. CEMA is comprised of over 40 groups including industry, government, First Nations, and environmental organizations. The fish study, which will seek ways to protect fish in the Athabasca River, is just one of many environmental projects that CEMA has sponsored since it started in June 2000.

"CEMA is about bringing everyone together to work collaboratively toward a clean and safe environment," says Dan Smith, CEMA Vice-President and member of the Fort McMurray Environmental Association. "We want to assure residents of northeastern Alberta that a high quality environment will be maintained in the region, despite increased industrial development. Everyone in the region has an interest in making sure the air is safe to breathe, the water is safe to drink, and the fish are safe to eat."

Industry believes that by asking the right questions, CEMA is moving in the right direction.

Industry continues to surpass gas flaring targets

ALBERTA'S SKIES ARE DARKER AT NIGHT and the air is cleaner because the oil and natural gas industry continues to reduce solution gas flaring at a record pace.

In 1997, the Canadian Association of Petroleum Producers (CAPP) worked with the Clean Air Strategic Alliance (CASA) to evaluate solution gas flaring with the goal of determining effective ways to reduce flaring. CASA is an independent, non-profit organization that includes environmental, government, industry and health representatives from across Alberta. By consensus, CASA stakeholders agreed to a voluntary approach with annual targets supported by regulatory requirements.

Between 1996 and 2001, province-wide flaring dropped by 53 per cent, more than double the reduction target.

Progress like this shows the value of CASA's consensus-based approach. Tom Marr-Laing, Director of the Energy Watch Program of the Pembina Institute for Appropriate Development and a vice-president of CASA, calls it "reasoned debate involving a mutual interest in finding solutions by all sides."

He says, "A process like this is not quick, but the high level of commitment of everyone around the table makes success possible. As a result, tremendous progress has been achieved and Albertans should anticipate further reductions as industry turns its attention to the remaining flares."

Grizzlys moving up in South standings

by Barry Williams

With points in their last five games, the Olds Grizzlys are making a move in the Alberta Junior Hockey League Rogers AT&T Wireless South Division standings now sitting in second place.

In action last week, the Grizzlys scored a 7-5 victory over the Fort McMurray Oil Barons in Fort McMurray, gained a single point in a thrilling 5-4 double overtime loss to the Lloydminster Blazers at the Sportsplex and defeated the Bonnyville Pontiacs 7-4 in Olds on Sunday evening.

The Grizzlys ran their seasonal point total to 24 on a record of 9 wins, 2 losses and 6 ties. They trail the division leaders, Canmore Eagles by a single point and lead the Calgary Canucks by a single point. In overall league standings, the Grizzlys are third.

The Grizzlys have two games in hand over the Eagles and a game on the Canucks.

On Friday, Oct. 18 at the Olds Sportsplex, the Grizzlys and Blazers were locked in a thrilling exciting game producing an abundance of offensive chances and lacking at times on a defensive effort.

After playing to a scoreless first period, the Blazers held a 3-2 lead after forty minutes of play. In the final frame, the Grizzlys struck early with a pair of goals taking a 4-3 lead before the Blazers scored a short handed goal with less than two minutes to play, sending the game into over time tied at 4-4. Nothing was decided in the first extra session and the Blazers secured the victory with Shawn Sewchuk blinking the red light with a minute and half left in the second five minute over time period.

Brett Hopfe dented the twine twice on the power play for the Grizzlys with Rob Tourville and Shea Hamilton, on a power play, adding singletons.

With an outburst of offensive play during the game, the netminders were peppered with rubber as Lawson made 37 saves while, Blazers' netminder, Mitch Hauser, turned aside 51 shots.

It was a game where the power play would shine as the Grizzlys notched three power play markers in five man advantages with the Blazers notching two power play goals on five opportunities.

In Fort McMurray on Sunday Oct. 13, the Grizzlys' power play went to work as they notched four goals with the man advantage with Tyler Hilbert, Greg Kreese and Landis Stankevich notching two goals apiece. Blue liner, Matt Piller, rounded out the scoring for the Grizzlys.

For the Oil Barons, Ben Stokes recorded a hat trick and Matt Campbell notched a pair of goals.

On Sunday against the Pontiacs in the first period the Grizzlys dented the twine on four power play goals by Tyler Rosehill, with a pair, Shea Hamilton and Landis Stankevich to take a commanding 4-1 lead into the second period.

With the Grizzlys being caught flat footed in the second stanza, the Pontiacs were let back into the game scoring a pair of goals to narrow the margin to 4-3 at the end of forty minutes of play.

The Grizzlys out scored the Pontiacs 3-1 in the third and final frame.

Pilot Program introduces kids to hockey

Our new two week "Introduction to Hockey" Pilot Program finished last week and it was a great success. The program was an attempt to introduce families to hockey, who otherwise may never have had the opportunity. We had a total of 27 kids (almost even split between boys and girls) which we divided into a younger group (aged 4-8) and an older group (aged 9-14).

The Pilot Program had 4 sessions on the small ice surface while conditioning camp was being conducted on the main ice.

Conditioning Camp is run for the players who are registered in the league programs. As the players showed the confidence and interest (and many did) they were given the opportunity to join conditioning camp in their appropriate age group on the main ice. We found that our numbers on the small ice were steadily shrinking, but whether they stayed on the small ice or went on to bigger and better things, they all seemed to have fun. Many people contributed to the success of this program. The committee who helped make this idea a reality were Tammy and Cory Olson, Gary and Joanna Graf, Lawrence Allen and Kevin and Leah Hasselberg. Sport Central in Edmonton donated 14 bags of used hockey equipment, many individuals donated equipment, and the Town donated ice. Mountain View Sports supported the program by being able to offer a discount on equipment to Pilot Program participants.

We were able to have lots of coaches on ice: Gary Graf, Dan Northcott, Kevin Hasselberg, Tammy Watt, Lawrence Allen, Ed Strautman, Alex Graves, Jason Switzer and Jason Whitfield. The program would not have been possible without the approval and support of the Didsbury Minor Hockey Board. Last but not least we would like to thank the kids and their parents for being such a wonderful rewarding bunch to work with. So far, as a result of the program, we have 9 new registrants to our regular hockey programs and we anticipate 3-4 more in the next week. Some kids were already committed to other activities this fall but would like to register next year. We would like to be able to offer this program again next year in the spring. We can still accommodate players at most levels and need more girls all ages call Tammy Watt Head Coach at 335-3621 for more info and we need more girls all ages call Tammy Watt Head Coach at 335-4609. For general info on registration call our Registrar Cassandra Peterson at 335-4077.

Jillian Tyler

Swimmer Rises to "Senior National Level"

Former Aqua-Jets swimmer, Jillian Tyler took her swimming endeavors to new heights at a "Canadian Youth-Junior National" meet held in Lethbridge this past July.

Tyler began her mission to attend the "Youth-Junior National" meet when she competed at the Swim Alberta Winter short course "A" Provincials held in Lethbridge last March. At this meet, Tyler swam to three "Youth National" swim times.

After this meet, Tyler trained long course (50m pool) and achieved four "Canadian Junior National" times at various meets throughout the Spring season. Tyler's collection of these "Youth / Junior National" times qualified her for the Youth-Jr. National meet in Lethbridge.

Tyler's coach told his small squad of young qualifiers they were only going to experience a higher caliber of competition. The Club did not expect any more from their young squad of rookies.

Tyler was entered in the long course 50/100m Fly, the 50/100m Backstroke, the 50/100m Free, the 4x100 Medley and Free Relay and the 4x200 Free Relay.

Tyler qualified for all these events but was allowed one free event with a "no time". The event she was entered in with a no time was the 100 Fly. Tyler competed in the "Youth" category which includes swimmers 16 years and under from all across Canada. There were swimmers from all over Canada, from B.C. to the Maritimes.

There was even a team from New Zealand who sent a contingent of touring swimmers.

On the first day of competition, Tyler swam the 100m Free at prelims and qualified for the "B" finals in the evening. The team was ecstatic that such a young rookie swimmer would even make a final.

Such an honor is usually reserved for the more experienced and older swimmers.

On the third day of competition, Tyler's chaperone told her parents that over breakfast they were chatting and Tyler told the chaperone she was going for a national time.

The chaperone said she made the statement with such a casual confidence but she talked like a swimmer on a mission. At the pool, Tyler's parents met the coach who sounded like he was coming down with a cold. Tyler's mom stated, "you don't sound so well". The coach replied, "All I need is a good swim to wake me up".

Well, little did Tyler's coach know that he was about to get his wake-up call. Tyler's first race of the morning was the 50m Fly. Tyler mounted the start blocks at the prelim session. The start sounded and Tyler flew through the water to a "Senior National" time in the 50 Fly (long course). The team was energized!!!

Tyler also made the finals in the 100m Fly. She had a time tied with a 15 year old swimmer from Quebec. The Quebec swimmer just edged Tyler out for the "A" final. Tyler swam in the "B" final with a time of 1:05.88. Tyler had to swim this event 3 times in one day (in the prelims, to break the tie, and in the finals). Tyler's coach just about put Tyler in the 200 Free rather than the 100 Fly. Another club coach said he would secure a spot for Tyler to swim the 200 Free in a relay. Tyler was just hundredths of a second off a Senior National time in the 100m Fly!

Tyler, in her age group, is currently ranked 2nd in Canada in the 100m Free, 7th in the 50m Free, 2nd in the 50m Back, 3rd in the 100m Back, 1st in the 50m Fly, 2nd in the 100m Fly. At Youth-Junior Nationals Tyler attained an overall 6th place Canadian ranking for the 50m Fly in the 16 year and under category (long course).

Tyler holds several club records with Cascade for her age group. Last year Tyler was awarded a Cascade Summit Award for the most improved swimmer in her group. At the Winter "A" Provincial Long Course meet in Edmonton in July she was awarded a prestigious Cascade jersey as the overall swimmer at the meet. This jersey is only given out twice a year.

Tyler is currently training with the Cascade "National" squad where swimmers range from ages 14 to 21. Tyler says of her National group of swimming companions this year, "Wow! This group is right on. They're so together." Tyler states each coach is so unique. They have their long term goals for me and I have mine too. It's definitely a close "coach-athlete" relationship. Tyler still maintains a congenial relationship with her past coach. "He is a professional, caring and personable person. He's always on deck if I ever need him." Last year we joked a bit but this year we joke alot!" Tyler says of her new coach, "He's so cool. He's very serious. He works us hard but I already feel faster. I can hardly wait to start competing".

All these achievements in just ten months of swimming has taken Tyler from a summer club level of swimming to a National level. She will be able to compete at elite and select meets such as the short course Nationals in Edmonton in November and the new Swim Canada Club Nationals meet being held in Montreal in the summer of 2003.

We wish Tyler the best of swimming as she continues to "train hard to go faster."

Looking for a new hobby?
Here's your chance to learn how to do all those neat things you've seen in craft stores and on television. Rose's Stuff opened up in Didsbury in February this year, and owner Rose Goerzen has enjoyed every minute of it.
